ABSTRACT:

GERD is considered as one of the global health hazards. Apart from all the signs and symptoms of GERD, complications of GERD are one of the most difficult to handle for the physician. Out of all the symptoms arising out of GERD, bloating, belching and abdominal discomfort are the most common to occur and the most worrisome & troublesome for the patient. With the help of homeopathic remedy Robinia pseudoacacia we were able to show significant results in cases of GERD resulting from various different causes. (2,3,4,5) For the project the potency was decided as 30C in single dose. Final assessment was carried out and efficacy was assessed by the changes observed in the subjective feeling of the symptoms at the end of the treatment regimen. In our study out of the 54 cases treated and observed, 38 cases showed positive results and reduction in the symptoms
